

With Care in Mind: NLP based mental resources to help you while you give care

Caring for someone is never easy. It can be demanding work that can leave the carer or caregiver mentally stressed and exhausted.. This book With Care in Mind is for people who provide care, usually in their own home for someone they love. This book focuses on the mental state of the caregiver so that they can function at their best in what are difficult and demanding conditions. With Care in Mind utilises the exciting techniques that are available from the field of NLP. NLP is well know for its applications in areas such as; therapy, sports coaching and sales. Here the author Chris Walton has combined his seven years experience of giving care to his mother with his NLP skills learned studying for his NPL practitioner and master practitioner levels. However this book is based around the needs of care and keeps any NLP jargon to a minimum. With care in Mind helps the carer to give their very best to the one they love and care for. It does not claim to solve every problem. It simply seeks to give caregivers mental support where needed.
